State Corporation Commission

Notice of Public Comment Period on Proposed Administrative Regulations

After considering the oral and written comments presented in conjunction with its public hearing on January 18, the State Corporation Commission has determined that it will receive additional written public comment on its proposed permanent surface pond regulations that would be administered by the commission's Conservation Division in Wichita. The comment period will run 60 days—beginning March 1 and ending April 30.

Written comments may be submitted to the State Corporation Commission, Attn: Shari Feist Albrecht, Director, 200 Colorado Derby Building, 202 W. 1st, Wichita 67202.

Copies of the proposed regulations and the economic impact statements may be obtained at the Wichita address. Persons requesting a copy of the proposed regulations and economic impact statements, in accordance with K.S.A. 45-219, will be required to compensate the commission for the cost of reproduction. This additional public comment period provides an opportunity for all interested parties to present their views, in writing, in regard to the adoption of the proposed regulations.

All written comments submitted by interested parties on or before April 30 will be considered by the commission as a basis for making changes to these proposed permanent regulations.

The following is a brief summary of the proposed regulations and economic impact statements:

K.A.R. 82-3-600 (Permanent regulation). The amendment clarifies that use of surface ponds without commission approval is prohibited and establishes a $500 penalty for unathorized use. The amendment requires the filing of an application with the Conservation Division and specifies application requirements. Chloride concentration and geohydrology are the criterion for assessing the risk that a particular surface pond poses to water resources. The amendment deletes construction requirements that have been placed in K.A.R. 82-3-601a.

Economic Impact: The operator shall bear any penalty expense.

K.A.R. 82-3-600b (Permanent regulation). This new regulation establishes a reauthorization process for existing surface ponds that are located in recently identified sensitive groundwater areas. The reauthorization involves the filing of an application with the Conservation Division on a form prescribed by the division. One year from the effective date of the regulation is the established reauthorization period. The regulation establishes a $500 penalty for unreauthorized operation of an existing surface pond after the expiration of the one-year period.

Economic Impact: The operator shall bear the expense of preparing and filing the application as well as any penalty expense.

K.A.R. 82-3-601 (Revocation). The revocation eliminates provisions duplicated within proposed K.A.R 83-3-600.

Economic Impact: None

K.A.R. 82-3-601a (Permanent regulation). This new regulation specifies the construction requirements for surface ponds located in sensitive groundwater areas. The regulation establishes a minimum freeboard of 30" for all surface ponds except drilling pits and burn pits, which shall have a minimum freeboard of 12".

The regulation requires that reserve pits in sensitive groundwater areas underlain by the Hutchinson salt member of the Wellington formation and emergency pits in sensitive groundwater areas shall be constructed to limit hydraulic conductivity to no more than 1 x 10-7 cm/sec. The regulation lists a number of available options to meet this requirement.

The regulation prohibits the construction of surface ponds deeper than five feet above the water table in the area.

Economic Impact: Based on an estimate of 778 wells drilled per year in sensitive groundwater areas (derived from a five-year statistical average of total wells drilled in Kansas) and an incremental reserve pit cost per well ranging from $10,152 to $48,330 depending on the construction option selected, the total annual cost for industry ranges from $7.9 to $21.8 million.

Assuming that there are 28,051 producing leases in Kansas, 30 percent of which are located in sensitive groundwater areas, and assuming two-thirds of the leases have emergency pits, a total annual industry cost of $93,505 to $6 million is estimated. This cost range varies from $566 for lining emergency pits with plastic liners to $2100 for fiberglass or steel tanks in lieu of emergency pits to $11,130 for lining the gunite liner.

Groundwater monitoring and leak detection costs are difficult to quantify generally since individual aquifer characteristics and monitor well construction criteria vary from location to location. The commission currently has authority to require monitoring and leak detection where groundwater pollution is suspected. Any such installation costs would be borne by the legally responsible party.

The costs described above are for preventive measures against groundwater pollution from oil and gas activites. These costs are generally believed to be significantly less than actual groundwater cleanup costs after pollution has occurred. It is further believed that requiring more stringent construction of surface ponds will encourage development of new and more cost-effective alternatives and technology to ensure groundwater protection.

Enforcement of this regulation is expected to be handled by existing staff. Additional geologists were hired in fiscal year 1989 in anticipation of implementing more stringent construction requirements that have been under study for three years. At this time, no significant economic impact is anticipated with respect to the agency.

K.A.R 82-3-601b (Permanent regulation). This new regulation provides for an exception to the construction and closure requirements for surface ponds. Exception requests must be made in writing to the director and submitted with the surface pond application. The request must contain supporting data to show why the exception should be granted. An on-site investigation may be conducted to determine the viability of the exception request.

Economic Impact: The applicant bears the expense of preparing and filing an exception request. The commission bears the cost of any on-site investigation, including travel and staff time.

K.A.R. 82-3-602 (Permanent regulation). The amendment clarifies pond closure requirements and restructures the contents of the regulation. The amendment imposes a new requirement that operators of reserve pits in sensitive groundwater areas report, to the appropriate district office, the chloride content of reserve pit fluids and a drilling fluid management plan within 48 hours after drilling operations cease. The drilling fluid management methods actually used shall be reported to the Conservation Division on the affidavit of completion.

Economic Impact: The operator shall bear the expense of reporting the required information to the Conservation Division.

K.A.R. 82-3-605 (Permanent regulation). This new regulation specifies that dikes do not require surface pond permits. The regulation requires operators to notify the appropriate district office of any discharge into diked areas' within 24 hours of the discharge. The regulation further requires operators to remove fluids from within the diked area within 48 hours after discovery of the discharge. The regulation also establishes penalties of $250, $500 and $1000 for an operator's failure to properly remove fluids within the diked area.

Economic Impact: The operator shall bear the cost of notification and removal of discharged fluids and any penalty expense.
